Part A (40 Marks)

READING COMPREHENSION (20 marks)

A. Read the passage given below.

1. Everything you do in your day-to-day life has an impact on the planet, from the food you eat to the car you drive. Sustainable living includes prioritizing the use of natural and renewable resources instead of creating excess waste and depleting resources for future generations. At the moment, we are producing resources, using energy and creating waste at a rate which isn't sustainable. This leads to environmental issues, such as pollution and climate change, which cause harm to the environment, wildlife and humans. By making some small changes to your lifestyle, you can reduce your carbon footprint and help to tackle these issues.
2. Save energy: By using less energy, you can help to reduce carbon emissions. There are a number of ways you can save energy at home, including switching off standby appliances and hanging clothes to dry instead of using a drier.
3. Use reusable alternatives: Single-use products, particularly plastic ones, tend to end up in landfill and the ocean, causing harm to wildlife and the environment. Prevent this by choosing to use reusable and eco-friendly alternatives instead.
4. Go paperless: To avoid wasting paper, choose to receive letters over email and only print off documents if necessary.
5. Recycle and reuse: Make sure you're recycling by putting your rubbish in the correct bins. Also, try to reuse products and items as many times as possible before binning them to reduce waste.
6. Donate unused items: If you don't use a product or wear a piece of clothing anymore, give it to a charity shop or someone you know would make use of it to help reduce waste.
7. Save water: You can save water in and around your home by making a number of small changes.
8. Drive less: Walk or ride a bike to your destination instead of driving if it's close enough – it's better for the environment and your health. Using public transport is another good way to help reduce greenhouse gas emissions.

9. Don't waste food: If you have leftovers, don't throw them away. However, if they do go off, use them to create compost for you garden.

1. Would you like a job where you work long hours, are not eligible for any leave and there is no chance of promotion? What's more, there is no payday because you won't get any salary.
2. Don't be shocked. Mothers across the world do this thankless job without complaining. The household tasks done by women are neither acknowledged as work, nor do they get paid for them.
3. According to a 2011 The Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) study, the average Indian woman spent nearly six hours a day doing unpaid work. Economists believe that though it is unpaid, the household work done by homemakers constitutes economic activity and should be included in the national income. By ignoring it, we underestimate women's contribution to the economy.
4. Manushi Chhillar's answer in the final round of the Miss World pageant has briefly brought it into the limelight. When she said mothers deserve the highest salary, Chhillar did not put a number to the economic value of a mother.

All In A Day's Work

What housewives do and what it is worth

Task	What it entails	Value (per month)
Daycare for two kids	Taking care of kids for 12-14 hours during the day	₹12,000
Personalised cooking	Taking into account the preferences of 3-4 people	₹6,000
Housekeeping	Supervising laundering, house cleaning by maids and servants	₹3,000
Budgeting & accounting	Keeping record of expenses, purchases and allocating funds	₹4,000
Nursing for kids, elderly	Attending to elderly family members, kids when sick	₹6,000
Tutor	Teaching kids and helping with homework, projects	₹6,000
Driver	Taking kids, other family members around town	₹8,000
TOTAL		₹45,000

5. A mother wears several hats during the day, but let's start with day care for kids. The average day care charges in a metro are ₹ 6,000 per child. Then comes personalised cooking for stubborn teenagers and fussy elders. Instead of 1-2 dishes in a day, the typical housewife is cooking 2-3 dishes per meal. A paid personalised cooking service would cost ₹ 6,000 for a family of four members. Even with household helps around, to do the laundry and sweeping, a homemaker has to supervise the process. She also has to oversee repairs and ensure everything is in working order. Try hiring a housekeeper instead and you will have to pay at least ₹3,000 a month.
6. Besides these menial tasks, a housewife is also the family's finance minister, burdened with managing the household budget. She keeps a record of all household purchases and ensures that no bill remains unpaid. This budgeting and accounting job would cost you another ₹4,000. Attending elderly family members and kids when they are sick is part of a homemaker's routine, chargeable ₹ 6,000 otherwise. She is also the driver who ferries kids to tuitions, parties and shopping malls and the errand girl who buys groceries and other stuff for the household. Once back, she is the tutor who helps them with homework and school projects. That amounts around ₹6,000 saved on tutor and ₹8,000 saved on a driver. All these task's worth sums up to ₹45,000 a month.
7. Working women have it even worse. After a gruelling day at work, the "second shift" begins at home. It doesn't matter whether you are a clerk in a bank or head a multinational.
